

10 Seduction Tips

You Can Start To Use Today!

Introduction

Wouldn't it be great if there was one magical phrase or potion or something that we could use to seduce our partner? All of a sudden our relationship would be like it was back in the day when everything was brand new and exciting.

Well, bad news – there is no magic that will do that for you. However, there is something that might just be a bit more powerful: the art of seduction. Seduction is a mind game that allows us to cause our partner to rediscover us and once again causes them to be both interested in us and attracted to us.

Just as each of our partners is different from everyone else, so too are the seduction techniques that will work them. What this means for you is that you've got some homework to do. This report contains 10 very different techniques that you can try out with your partner.

Not all of them may work, but I'd be willing to bet that at least a few will. Which ones those are is up to you to discover. Give them all a try and take good notes. Spending a little time with the information contained in this report just might make your relationship a whole lot better...!

Good luck!

- Dr. Jim

Seduction Tip #1: Don't Come Across As A Seducer

How odd isn't it? If your partner looks up and suddenly seems you coming towards them with a full head of seduction steam on, they're more likely to run away than get turned on. The secret to executing a good seduction is that your partner may never know that they are being seduced.

What this means for you is that you don't suddenly want to come across as being "fake" in some way. Suddenly changing the way you dress, the scent that you wear, or the way that you look can alert your partner that something is up and put them on the defensive and that's not what you want to do.

Yes, making some changes can all be part of the seduction; however, making too many changes all at once and suddenly you're going to be screaming "I'm REALLY insecure – look at me!". Don't do this. Remember, we're trying to sell the steak, not the sizzle.

Seduction Tip #2: Spontaneity is cool, practice is not

Your partner already knows you. If you try to have a conversation with them that you've practiced in your head a couple of hundred times then they are going to see right through you. The best seduction conversations are the real ones – the ones that feel like they are happening in real time.

Look, I'm not saying that you can't memorize a few things that you want to work into a seduction conversation with your partner, but don't try to memorize a lot of stuff because it's all going to come out wrong when you try to (1) remember it and (2) say it.

My recommendation is that you only need to memorize one thing prior to starting a seduction conversation with your partner. Look, you both know each other so you have a lot to talk about . Pick one thing that you want to work into the conversation and then just let things progress and you'll find a spot to drop it into.

Seduction Tip #3: It's All About The Questions

When you are seducing your partner, you need to lead the conversation. I don't want you to be reacting to what they say, I want you to be in control of the conversation. By doing this you get to control where the conversation goes and where everyone ends up at the end of the night.

What you need to do is to use what you already know about your partner to understand how and WHEN to ask them questions that will allow you to enter into a deep rapport with them. You need to understand that questions are the power tools of seduction conversations.

What you may have forgotten is that it was the questions that you asked back at the start of your relationship that showed your partner that you were interested in them and that you cared about what was going on in their life. Rediscover this skill and you'll boost their trust in you and you'll be well on your way to once again seducing them.

Seduction Tip #4: Learn The Art Of The Touch

All too often as we move farther and farther into a relationship, we stop touching each other. Oh sure, if we're in bed there's probably a whole lot of touching going on, but outside of bed there may be very little touching happening.

It turns out that touching is very powerful. A touch on the cheek, fingers in the hair at the top of the neck, a brush against the top of your hand, all of these allow your partner to feel your physical presence outside of the bedroom.

There are all sorts of fancy terms to this ("kino" or "kinesthetics") but it all comes down to you being able to project your physical presence. Remember, we're dealing with all five of your partner's senses here and this is a big part of it.

Just understand that how close you stand to your partner at the right (or wrong) time can make all of the difference in the world.

Seduction Tip #5: Say It With A Whisper

This technique works exceptionally well when both of you are out in public. Using your whisper voice to communicate something to your partner tells them that it's something that you want only them to hear.

The best kind of whisper messages are the ones that are completely out of place for where they are being delivered. A great example is if the two of you are at a cocktail party or at a company picnic. Leaning over, placing your lips just centimeters from your partner's ear and whispering something naughty (or cheeky) can capture their imagination in an instant.

You'll know that this simple seduction technique has been a success if all of a sudden your partner can't leave the event fast enough...

Seduction Tip #6: Smoking Hot Text Messages

Why should we let the teens have all of the fun? Text messages are a great way to seduce your partner. A big part of their power comes from the fact that they probably are not going to be expecting you to send them a hot text message. The surprise is what is going to capture their attention.

The time that passes between when they get the text message and when they can do something about it is what will let the desire grow. The text message can be anything that you want it to be: "You. Me. Bed. Tonight." or "Picturing the two of us naked and sweaty" or "Having dirty thoughts. Can't wait to see you at home..." The key to making this seduction technique a success is that you KNOW your partner. Send them a message that you KNOW will really turn them on.

Seduction Tip #7: Use That Cell Phone Camera

Yeah, yeah. I know that I'm on dangerous ground here, but hold on a minute and just hear me out. What your goal here is to send your partner a photo that is going to whet their appetite for more. Yes, a nudie shot of you would probably do the trick, but if you're not comfortable doing that (or your partner wouldn't be comfortable getting a picture like that), then do the next best thing – be suggestive.

You can take a mirror shot of yourself wearing something that they like (including PJs) with your head missing. You can send them a shot of just your puckered lips. If there is one body party that they really like (feet?), then snap a picture of that and send it off.

More often than not you won't have to include any words. The shock of getting the photo from you will do the trick. The next time you see them, they should be all fired up and ready to go!

Seduction Tip #8: Make Lots Of Eye Contact

This is one of the things that we just don't do enough of once we're in a relationship. So much of how we communicate as humans comes through our faces and your eyes make up a lot of your face. Take the time to make real eye contact with your partner when you're talking with them.

You do need to be a little bit careful here. We don't want you to come across as being creepy by staring at them too much. They'll start to wonder what's wrong with the way that they look.

Instead, take the time to make eye contact, hold it, and then briefly look away before looking back again. This is all very subtle and your partner may not realize that you're doing it but they'll find themselves being drawn into the conversation for some strange reason that they can't explain. That's what seduction is all about...

Seduction Tip #9: Eat Chocolate Together

Ok, so this is just a fun one. It turns out that chocolate releases serotonin in the brain, which provides feelings similar to those associated with falling in love. When you eat chocolate with your partner, you'll be present when the serotonin is being released and they'll direct all of their feelings towards you.

As an added bonus, who doesn't like eating chocolate? By sharing this ceremony with your partner, the pleasure that they'll get from enjoying eating chocolate will be associated with spending time with you. All of this from doing something that you like anyway...

Seduction Tip #10: Complement Your Partner

This one sounds just a bit too simple doesn't it? However, those doctors who spend all of their time doing studies report that people see complements as a way to get closer to their partner. Remember that complements don't cost you anything and that means that you need to be giving them out freely.

Be sure to always be complementing your partner. Don't just shower them with complements when you are in the bedroom or when they aren't wearing anything. The thinking is that you 're just trying to get something. Instead, find the one time each day that they would not be expecting a compliment from you and deliver it then.

Be very careful when giving complements – you have to really mean it. A complement that seems offhand or out of place won't help your seduction plans. Your partner needs to be able to understand that you really mean each and every complement that you give to them.

Image Credits:

Tip #1: Les Chatfield

<http://www.flickr.com/photos/elsie/>

Tip #2: Alec Couros

<http://www.flickr.com/photos/courosa/>

Tip #3: ed_needs_a_bicycle

<http://www.flickr.com/photos/omcoc/>

Tip #4: Guian Bolisay

<http://www.flickr.com/photos/instantvantage/>

Tip #5: Aaron Landry

<http://www.flickr.com/photos/s4xton/>

Tip #6: Duncan Harris

<http://www.flickr.com/photos/duncanh1/>

Tip #7: bandita

http://www.flickr.com/photos/cosmic_bandita/

Tip #8: Selbe B

<http://www.flickr.com/photos/stacylynn/>

Tip #9: Molly Katherine

<http://www.flickr.com/photos/treasureinadullshell/>

Tip #10: Guillermo Salinas

<http://www.flickr.com/photos/chinosart/>